Notes From the Field

This month we are feeling the back to school routine. We said goodbye to our interns, Maddie and Elizabeth, who went back to college in mid-August, and as middle and high school students go back to school, weekday volunteer sessions on the farm are much smaller. With school back in session, we are shifting our Thursday afternoon volunteer hours to Saturday mornings. Less help means more hustle for Ceilidh and I, as we prepare beds and plant our latest round of fall crops.

I am excited to welcome everyone out to the farm for our Fall Open House event. See details above. Sign up to volunteer during the open house here. With help from many volunteers, we have been busy getting the farm ready for visitors. We look forward to sharing the farm with you! Invite your friends and neighbors down to the farm, we'll have a craft activity, a tasting, and a scavenger hunt.

See you on the farm,
Liz

Your Help is Needed on the Farm!
